

ABSTRACT

5 A recording and reproducing device includes a password managing part to manage an inputted password, a first program list recording part from which data is read only when the inputted password matches the password in password managing part, a second program list recording part from which is read when a password is not inputted or when the inputted password is wrong, and program list forming unit to form a program list of a desired program which is read from the first or the second program list recording part.